

JOURNALISM

The Journalism Minor provides students from all academic majors the opportunity to acquire essential skills of reporting, writing, and multimedia news production to become knowledgeable and effective journalists with marketable areas of expertise. Students minoring in journalism will come to recognize connections between different disciplines and the media and learn how to use knowledge and skills acquired in other coursework to identify, report on, and clearly explain newsworthy stories to an audience of non-specialists through a variety of media.

Requirements for Journalism Minor

Code	Title	Credits
Required Courses		6
JO-101	Introduction to Journalism
JO-201	Multimedia Journalism
Electives		12
CM-268
CM-270
CM-272
CM-351
CM-352
CM-354
EN-266	Journalism: Practice and Techniques
EN-267	Journalism: Advanced Newswriting
EN-268	Journalism: Feature Writing
EN-269
EN-270	Journalism: Editing
EN-271	Journalism Workshop
EN-272	News Reporting and Writing I
EN-275	Sportswriting
EN-281	Writing for Digital Environments
EN-341	Advanced Practices in Writing
EN-351
EN-352	Practicum in Journalism
EN-354	Opinion Writing
Total Credits		18

As an interdisciplinary program, the Journalism Minor draws its core faculty from multiple disciplines across campus. Each faculty member's information can be found at the respective department for each of the courses. The Program Coordinator for the Journalism Minor is Cleve Wiese, Ph.D. in the Department of English.